Good morning

Hope everyone had a good weekend.

Jeevan – thanks for the kind introduction.

Cait, Robby – pleasure to (virtually) meet.

Given our strong focus here, in our work in Boston, on Innovation and Technology - thought it would be good to connect, to learn more on MassChallenge and also to present our operation here.

I'm also adding Mr. Hagai Benjamin - the Consulate's Director of Innovation, Technology and Economy, as well as Ms. Brooke Perlman, my assistant.

Looking forward to engaging in a mutual discussion

Dear Jeevan,

I hope this message finds you well. It was a pleasure meeting you last week at the AdvaMed event.

I wanted to inform you of an upcoming visit to Boston by Mr. Yaron Lotan, the CEO of the BIRD Foundation, scheduled for August 11–12. The BIRD Foundation (Binational Industrial Research and Development) is a U.S.-Israel partnership that supports joint industrial R&D projects. It offers matchmaking support between U.S. and Israeli companies and provides funding of up to 50% of project development costs, up to $1.5 million per project.

Since its establishment by the U.S. and Israeli governments in 1977, BIRD has supported hundreds of projects in areas including energy and environment, advanced manufacturing, agrotechnology, cleantech, communications, cybersecurity, electronics, fintech, foodtech, healthcare IT, homeland security, life sciences, nanotechnology, semiconductors, software, water, and other innovative technologies.

The Consul General, Benjamin Sharoni, will be hosting an executive briefing, over breakfast, at his residence on the morning of August 12th, where BIRD CEO, Mr. Lotan, will present the foundation, its mission and work. It be also an opportunity to meet other people who are interested in BIRD's work.

I've attached a short background note on both the BIRD Foundation and Mr. Lotan for your reference. I'm also attaching the invitation to the event on the 12th, as well as the link for in advance registration.

<https://form.jotform.com/252014048992154>

We've also sent the invitation to Mr. Eric Paley, and we hope both of you may be able to join us.

Thank you again for the partnership.
